Bankers and State Should Maintain Farm Values

GOV. OLSON IN ADDRESS TO STATE BANKERS TODAY

PROMISES STATE WILL NOT THROW CHEAP FARMS ON THE MARKET

URGES BANKERS TO USE "PULMOTOR ON FARM LANDS"

Minneapolis, Minn., June 11.—(U.P.)—Bankers must co-operate with the state to maintain the value of farm lands, Governor Floyd B. Olson told delegates to the 42nd annual convention of the Minnesota Bankers Association today.

Promising that the state will not throw cheap farms on the market and thereby depresse the value of other farms, Olson urged the bankers to do everything in their power to use the "pulmotor on farm lands."

The state of Minnesota will own approximately 3,000 farms before the end of the year as the result of mortgage foreclosures, Olson said. Economic conditions resulting from this fact will tax the ingenuity of experts," the governor said.

The state now owns 1,899 farms and within six months will be forced to take over another 600. In an additional three months 400 other farms will be added to that number.

"Banks now find themselves in the same condition," Olson said. Olson launched a lengthy defense of his appointment of J. N. Peyton, Duluth, to the post of state banking commissioner.

"Charges that Peyton's appointment was a matter of politics were absurd," the governor said. "Peyton was the best man for the position."

Olson pointed out that the state's expenditures in 1930 were almost a million and a half dollars less than in 1929 and said that similar cuts in expenses would be made.

The $15,400,000 highway bond issue will not become a burden on taxpayers, Olson told the bankers—the motor vehicle registration tax will more than adequately retire the bond issue.

C. T. Jaffray, president of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad company, speaking on "A Banker in Railroading," said that many future bright spots are apparent in the banking business if bankers will stick to a conservative and sound basis.

J. R. Chappell, president of the Merchants Bank of Winona, was elected president of the association at the closing session. Other officers elected included M. F. Ernst, Midway National Bank, St. Paul, vice-president; Walter Brooks, Northern National Bank, Bemidji, treasurer; and C. Ben Brombach, First National Bank, Minneapolis.

ILL SINCE LAST FALL, WM. HAMM DIES AT HOME

ST. PAUL MAN WAS PROMINENT IN REALTY AND THEATRE BUSINESS

FINANCED FINKELSTEIN & RUBEN IN NORTHWEST THEATRE CIRCUIT, INC.

St. Paul, Minn., June 11.—(U.P.)—William Hamm, 72, who started his fortune as the northwest's leading brewer and then turned to real estate and the theatre business after prohibition was enacted, died at his home last night.

He had been ill since last fall when he suffered a breakdown of his health.

Hamm was born in St. Paul Sept. 26, 1858, and educated here and at St. John's College at Collegeville, Minn. At 13 years of age, he entered the Theodore Hamm Brewing Company and some ten years later suceeded his father as president of what was then the largest industry in St. Paul.

With passage of the eighteenth amendment, Hamm turned to real estate and financing M. L. Finkelstein and I. H. Ruben in building the Northwest Theatre Circuit, Inc., which controlled 150 theatres throughout the northwest until 1929. As president of the Hamm Realty Company, he built the Hamm building in St. Paul. The theatres were sold to Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corporation two years ago for an estimated price of $10,000,000.

Hamm was president of the Emporium and owned a controlling share of its stock, which he purchased in 1925.

From 1890 to 1902, he was a member of the park board and was vice-president of the board which supervised the present St. Paul municipal auditorium.

Hamm is survived by his widow, a son, Willima Hamm, Jr., St. Paul, three daughters, Mrs. Theodore Land and Mrs. Margret Louise Kelley, St. Paul, and Mrs. Marie Josephine Ankeny, Minneapolis, and five sisters.

Horse Bites Man in Cheek, He Reclaims Flesh, Has It Restored

Pavia, Italy, June 11.—(U.P.)—Attendants claimed today this really happened.

Theodore Crema, attending a horse show at Monte Carlo, moved too close to a horse and the horse bit a large piece out of his cheek.

Crema, despite pain managed to remove the piece of flesh intact from the horse's mouth, borrowed a motorcar, drove several miles to a hospital and had the piece of flesh restored through plastic surgery.

2 TAKEN AFTER 24-HOUR CHASE CONFESS ROBBERY

LEO THIMESCH AND MICHAEL FRANKLIN, MARSHFIELD, WIS., AWAIT SENTENCE

MONEY TAKEN FROM FENWOOD STATE BANK IS FOUND IN THEIR POSSESSION

Wausau, Wis., June 11.—(U.P.)—Long prison sentences in Waupun state prison were given today to Leo Thimesch, 28, and Michael Franklin, 21, both of Marshfield, when they pleaded guilty to robbing the Fenwood State Bank.

Franklin, the younger of the pair, was sentenced by Circuit Judge A. H. Reid to serve 15 to 20 years, while Thimesch, a former convict, was given 25 to 40 years. The specific charge was asault and robbery while armed.

Sentence was pronounced less than 48 hours after the men drove into the little village of Fenwood, held up Cashier G. M. Patefield and escaped with less than $2,000 cash. They were caught on a road near Owen.

Wausau, Wis., June 11.—(U.P.)—Leo Thimesch, 28, and Michael Franklin, 21, both of Marshfield, captured 24 hours after the Fenwood State Bank had been held up, awaited sentence in circuit court today on robbery charges.

Five hours after being caught on a road near Owen, Wis., the men confessed the holdup and were arraigned before County Judge J. J. Okoneski. They waived preliminary hearing and were bound over to circuit court under $15,000 bond each.

A guilty plea was expected to be entered in circuit court.

Money taken in the robbery was found in possession of Thimesch and Franklin when they were captured. It was reported by the bank that $2,800 had been the loot, but the youths had only $1,117.

Cashier G. M. Patefield identified Thimesch as the man who robbed him.

An additional $50 of the stolen money was found in the woods near Dorchester where a posse of several hundred men searched futilely yesterday for the robbers.

Both Thimesch and Franklin submitted peacefully when stopped by Motorcycle Officer W. R. Hair and Oscar Neibacher, farmer.

Neibacher and Haire will share the $500 reward offered by the Wisconsin Bankers' Association.

Thimesch had a .22 calibre revolver.

Franklin and Thimesch said they had lost their jobs.

STRANGLING MARKS ARE FOUND ON NECK OF DEAD NURSE

NONE OTHER THAN HUMAN HANDS CAUSED THE DISCOLORATIONS

MEDICAL EXAMINER TESTIFIES IN TRIAL OF "PINKY" HATHAWAY

By FRANK MURPHY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Newport, R. I., June 11.—Nothing other than a human hand could have caused the three discolorations found on the neck of Verna E. Russell, 20-year-old blonde student nurse, after her bruised body was discovered beside a lane in Tiverton, Medical Examiner Charles H. Bryan testified today.

Resuming the witness stand at the trial of Elliot R. "Pinky" Hathaway, 28, son of a Massachusetts legislator who is charged with strangling the girl, Dr. Bryan stated that his autopsy revealed that the victim could have died only from strangulation.

Questioned by the attorney general regarding several small indentations on the girl's neck, the witness testified these were caused by a string of pearls she wore. Dr. Bryan stated the pearls, however, could not have caused the discolorations; that these marks undoubtedly resulted from the pressure of human hands.

Robbins Denied New Trial, Fur Farm Head to Appeal, Fights Prison Sentence and Fine

CHARGED WITH DEFRAUDING MANY INVESTORS

JUDGE LEARY GRANTS STAY TO PERMIT FILING OF NOTICE OF APPEAL

ATTORNEY CLAIMS HIS CLIENT PLACED IN DOUBLE JEOPARDY

Minneapolis, Minn., June 11.—(U.P.)—Charged with defrauding thousands of northwest investors through sale of unregistered securities, A. A. Robbins, president of the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms, today lost his initial fight against serving a three-year prison term and paying a $5,000 fine.

Motion for a new trial, argued in Hennepin county district court, was denied today by Judge W. C. Leary.

A. X. Schall, attorney for the chief of the now defunct company, announced the case would be carried to the state supreme court and Judge Leary granted a stay until Monday to permit filing of the notice of appeal.

Schall based his arguments for a new trial on a point of double jeopardy, Robbins having previously been indicted at St. Peter by a grand jury with the charges being later dismissed. The three-year term, imposed by Judge Leary in February, was to be served in the Minneapolis workhouse.

With settlement of the Robbins case, it was expected that Frank O'Malley, salesman for the company who has pleaded guilty to similar charges, will receive his sentence early next week.

Robbins and O'Malley were accused of selling units consisting of pairs of muskrats to investors without first obtaining permission from the state securities commission. Both made futile efforts to prove that the animal pairs did not come within the meaning of the state blue sky law.

Two N. P. Trains Between St. Paul and Minneapolis Ordered Discontinued

St. Paul, June 11.—(U.P.)—The state railroad and warehouse commission today ordered the discontinuance of two Northern Pacific passenger trains between St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The trains which terminate their run from Duluth at Minneapolis will hereafter end their trip at St. Paul. Few passengers ride to Minneapolis, the railroad said in a petition asking the discontinuance.

The order which becomes effective at once will save the railroad more than $1,000 a month, it was claimed.

Paris, June 11.—(U.P.)—Albert Lebrun of Meurthe-et-Moselle was elected president of the senate today. He received 147 votes against 139 for Jules Jeanneney. The election was necessitated by the fact that Paul Doumer was elected president of the republic.

'Speakeasy Nobody Owns' in New York is Finally Padlocked

New York, June 11.—(U.P.)—A padlock finally is on the door of "the speakeasy nobody owns," a favorite resort of the theatrical district mentioned in the Wickersham report as illustrating the difficulty of prohibition enforcement, because 40 raids in the past five years have failed to reveal anyone who would admt a proprietary interest in the place.

The government, however, issued the padlock after a prohibition agent testified the "club" was known as "Owen Lawlor's Place" and that Lawlor, a race track bookmaker, had confided to him that he was the real owner.

All three men were National Guard members.

Captain Rubner was killed instantly and Captain Kuhsus died at 12:30 P. M. at a local hospital. White was injured only slightly.

IN SEVERAL SECTIONS HAVE PUT POWER LINES OUT OF COMMISSION

St. Paul, Minn., June 11.—(U.P.)—Rain storms this afternoon struck over Minnesota putting power lines out of commission in several sections of the state.

Power at St. Cloud was reported out for a short time during the storm which brought three-quarters of an inch of precipitation to the Twin Cities.

Only minor difficulties were reported by telegraph and telephone lines leading out of St. Paul.

COL. LINDBERGH MAY FLY OVER N. E. AIR ROUTE

PLANS FOR THE CHINA-JAPAN TRIP ARE STILL INDEFINITE

CANNOT NAME CERTAIN DATE FOR HIS DEPARTURE

Washington, June 11.—(U.P.)—Charles A. Lindbergh, here to attend a luncheon in his honor, told the United Press today that "it is very likely" his flight to the Orient will be over "the northeastern route."

He said his plans still were indefinite and it would be "several weeks" before he could set a definite date for his departure.

Lindbergh arrived by plane soon after 11 A. M. from New York. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, who, with her husband, attended a luncheon given in their honor at the Japanese embassy. Lindbergh also is expected to call upon one or two more officials here in connection with his proposed flight.

Considerable time will be required to establish fuel and supply bases along the route, Lindbergh explained, after he finally determines the route he is to follow.

Asked if he expects to fly across the continent on his way to the Orient, he replied:

"No, it's very likely we may take the northeastern route."

What Lindbergh did not explain what he had in mind by a "northeastern route," it was believed he was considering the possibilities of a flight in the general direction of Labrador, Greenland and on around the world a few hundred miles south of the north pole. Such a route might even take him to Spitzbergen and from there over the Arctic to the Orient.

O. M. ANDERSON, ST. PAUL, ELECTED ODD FELLOWS HEAD

St. Paul, June 11.—(U.P.)—O. M. Anderson, St. Paul, was elected grand master of the Minnesota Independent Order of Odd Fellows at the closing session of the grand lodge meetings today.

M. A. Scalise, Duluth, was appointed grand herald by Anderson. More than 1,500 persons attended the four day sessions of the meeting.

MOTOR HEARSE USED AS AN AMBULANCE STIRS CITY OF NAPLES

Naples, June 11.—(U.P.)—Pedestrians were startled when they observed a motor hearse proceeding along the street with a man's body inside and not in a coffin.

It was later explained the motor hearse struck the man, injuring him, and that he had been placed within the hearse to be taken to a hospital.

CULTURED AND BEAUTIFUL GIRL FOUND MURDERED

AID OF SCOTLAND YARD SOUGHT BY NEW YORK TO UNRAVEL MYSTERY

DIARY OF MISS STARR FAITHFULL MAY YIELD SOME CLUES

New York, June 11.—(U.P.)—Aid of Scotland Yard, London's great detective organization, was sought today in an effort to unravel one of the most complex mysteries this city has followed in years—the death of 25-year-old Starr Faithfull.

Cultured, beautiful and with a host of friends among the best people of New York and Boston, this daughter of a well-to-do family living in an aristocratic corner of Greenwich Village has left in the wake of the tragedy which overtoko her early this week a life record both fascinating and sordid, and one which presents a confusing horde of theories to investigators.

A diary, kept up since the young woman's school days, appeared likely today to yield fresh clues in the strange case which has grown out of the discovery of Miss Faithfull's body last Monday on the shore of Long Beach.

Three days of investigation have virtually eliminated the theory that the attractive, party-loving foster daughter of Stanley Faithfull, wealthy chemical manufacturer, might have committed suicide. Working night and day, District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards has gathered enough evidence to convince him that Starr was murdered before her body was cast into the sea.

It is in hoping to locate recent drinking companions of the girl that authorities are seeking aid of Scotland Yard. On May 29 Miss Faithfull reportedly was taken from the liner Franconia, just after it had left its pier, in an intoxicated condition and escorted to shore in a tug. Francis Peabody Hamlin, cruise director for the Cunard Line and scion of a prominent Boston family, was said by Edwards to have introduced her to a man aboard the liner with whom police are eager to get in touch. The London detectives have been asked to obtain statements from Dr. G. Jameson Carr, the ship surgeon, who is understood to have been acquainted with Starr, and from other officers of the ship.

DECLARE STATE OF SIEGE IN THE WHOLE OF PERU

INTERNAL PEACE IS MENACED BY PLANS FOR A REVOLT

AUTHORITIES DECLARE THEY HAVE SITUATION WELL IN CONTROL

Lima, Peru, June 11.—(U.P.)—The junta governing Peru decreed a state of siege today in the entire country on the ground that internal peace was menaced by plans for a revolutionary movement.

The authorities announced they had the situation in control.

Fifty-five persons allegedly involved in a plot to overthrow the government were arrested at dawn today, an official communique said.

Mounted police and soldiers driving trucks began to patrol the streets after 2 A. M. and also mounted guard on highways between Lima and Callao. Order prevailed in both cities and elsewhere.

A majority of those arrested at Lima were secret service men caring for the safety of the president, it was said. All were sent to Callao this morning and it was believed they will be confined on San Lorenzo Island.

Coureray, Wis., June 11.—(U.P.)—Heavy rainfall caused part of the Grimm power dam on the Couderay river to be washed out and left the tons of exland, Radisson and Couderay without power today.

CONTROVERSY BETWEEN VATICAN, ITALY, IS SETTLED

FORMAL CONCLUSION OF NEGOTIATIONS BELIEVED NEAR AT HAND

RESIGNATION OF SEVERAL HIGH OFFICIALS IN VATICAN AND GOVERNMENT EXPECTED

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, June 11. — The controversy between the Vatican and the Italian government was regarded as practically settled today, although formal conclusion of negotiations had not been reached.

Resignations of several high officials in the Vatican and the government were expected to take place following the settlement of the controversy.

Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, who has been instrumental in the negotiations, will resign, one unconfirmed report said. It was believed certain that a number of heads most likely would be removed as soon as a settlement is reached, although in some cases promotion may precede removal from the scene of the controversy. This procedure is traditional.

Thus, it was understood that Mgr. Pizzardo, assistant secretary of state at the Vatican, who already has resigned, may be named either Apostolic delegate at Washington, or made a cardinal. Pizzardo resigned as assistant-general of the Azione Cattolica demonstrations, charged with political activities in alleged violation of the Concordat.

The government's reply also demanded the resignation of Mgr. Pizzardo on the grounds that he was not an Italian but a subject of the Vatican state, of which Pope Pius XI is head.

Other reports, unconfirmed, said the papal nuncio to Italy, Mgr. Francesco Borgongini-Duca, would resign, and that the Italian ambassador to the Vatican, Count De Vecchi, would quit. Their action, however, would not be taken until the controversy had definitely been settled.

Only minor difficulties were reported by telegraph and telephone lines leading out of St. Paul.

COL. LINDBERGH MAY FLY OVER N. E. AIR ROUTE

PLANS FOR THE CHINA-JAPAN TRIP ARE STILL INDEFINITE

CANNOT NAME CERTAIN DATE FOR HIS DEPARTURE

Washington, June 11.—(U.P.)—Charles A. Lindbergh, here to attend a luncheon in his honor, told the United Press today that "it is very likely" his flight to the Orient will be over "the northeastern route."

He said his plans still were indefinite and it would be "several weeks" before he could set a definite date for his departure.

Lindbergh arrived by plane soon after 11 A. M. from New York. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, who, with her husband, attended a luncheon given in their honor at the Japanese embassy. Lindbergh also is expected to call upon one or two more officials here in connection with his proposed flight.

Considerable time will be required to establish fuel and supply bases along the route, Lindbergh explained, after he finally determines the route he is to follow.

Asked if he expects to fly across the continent on his way to the Orient, he replied:

"No, it's very likely we may take the northeastern route."

What Lindbergh did not explain what he had in mind by a "northeastern route," it was believed he was considering the possibilities of a flight in the general direction of Labrador, Greenland and on around the world a few hundred miles south of the north pole. Such a route might even take him to Spitzbergen and from there over the Arctic to the Orient.

Todd, Wells, grand treasurer; William Pettinger, grand representative for two years, and James S. Lombard, retiring grand master, grand representative for one year.

M. A. Scalise, Duluth, was appointed grand herald by Anderson. More than 1,500 persons attended the four day sessions of the meeting.

MOTOR HEARSE USED AS AN AMBULANCE STIRS CITY OF NAPLES

Naples, June 11.—(U.P.)—Pedestrians were startled when they observed a motor hearse proceeding along the street with a man's body inside and not in a coffin.

It was later explained the motor hearse struck the man, injuring him, and that he had been placed within the hearse to be taken to a hospital.

CULTURED AND BEAUTIFUL GIRL FOUND MURDERED

AID OF SCOTLAND YARD SOUGHT BY NEW YORK TO UNRAVEL MYSTERY

DIARY OF MISS STARR FAITHFULL MAY YIELD SOME CLUES

New York, June 11.—(U.P.)—Aid of Scotland Yard, London's great detective organization, was sought today in an effort to unravel one of the most complex mysteries this city has followed in years—the death of 25-year-old Starr Faithfull.

Cultured, beautiful and with a host of friends among the best people of New York and Boston, this daughter of a well-to-do family living in an aristocratic corner of Greenwich Village has left in the wake of the tragedy which overtoko her early this week a life record both fascinating and sordid, and one which presents a confusing horde of theories to investigators.

A diary, kept up since the young woman's school days, appeared likely today to yield fresh clues in the strange case which has grown out of the discovery of Miss Faithfull's body last Monday on the shore of Long Beach.

Three days of investigation have virtually eliminated the theory that the attractive, party-loving foster daughter of Stanley Faithfull, wealthy chemical manufacturer, might have committed suicide. Working night and day, District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards has gathered enough evidence to convince him that Starr was murdered before her body was cast into the sea.

It is in hoping to locate recent drinking companions of the girl that authorities are seeking aid of Scotland Yard. On May 29 Miss Faithfull reportedly was taken from the liner Franconia, just after it had left its pier, in an intoxicated condition and escorted to shore in a tug. Francis Peabody Hamlin, cruise director for the Cunard Line and scion of a prominent Boston family, was said by Edwards to have introduced her to a man aboard the liner with whom police are eager to get in touch. The London detectives have been asked to obtain statements from Dr. G. Jameson Carr, the ship surgeon, who is understood to have been acquainted with Starr, and from other officers of the ship.

DECLARE STATE OF SIEGE IN THE WHOLE OF PERU

INTERNAL PEACE IS MENACED BY PLANS FOR A REVOLT

AUTHORITIES DECLARE THEY HAVE SITUATION WELL IN CONTROL

Lima, Peru, June 11.—(U.P.)—The junta governing Peru decreed a state of siege today in the entire country on the ground that internal peace was menaced by plans for a revolutionary movement.

The authorities announced they had the situation in control.

Fifty-five persons allegedly involved in a plot to overthrow the government were arrested at dawn today, an official communique said.

Mounted police and soldiers driving trucks began to patrol the streets after 2 A. M. and also mounted guard on highways between Lima and Callao. Order prevailed in both cities and elsewhere.

A majority of those arrested at Lima were secret service men caring for the safety of the president, it was said. All were sent to Callao this morning and it was believed they will be confined on San Lorenzo Island.

Coureray, Wis., June 11.—(U.P.)—Heavy rainfall caused part of the Grimm power dam on the Couderay river to be washed out and left the tons of exland, Radisson and Couderay without power today.

CONTROVERSY BETWEEN VATICAN, ITALY, IS SETTLED

FORMAL CONCLUSION OF NEGOTIATIONS BELIEVED NEAR AT HAND

RESIGNATION OF SEVERAL HIGH OFFICIALS IN VATICAN AND GOVERNMENT EXPECTED

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, June 11. — The controversy between the Vatican and the Italian government was regarded as practically settled today, although formal conclusion of negotiations had not been reached.

Resignations of several high officials in the Vatican and the government were expected to take place following the settlement of the controversy.

Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, who has been instrumental in the negotiations, will resign, one unconfirmed report said. It was believed certain that a number of heads most likely would be removed as soon as a settlement is reached, although in some cases promotion may precede removal from the scene of the controversy. This procedure is traditional.

Thus, it was understood that Mgr. Pizzardo, assistant secretary of state at the Vatican, who already has resigned, may be named either Apostolic delegate at Washington, or made a cardinal. Pizzardo resigned as assistant-general of the Azione Cattolica demonstrations, charged with political activities in alleged violation of the Concordat.

The government's reply also demanded the resignation of Mgr. Pizzardo on the grounds that he was not an Italian but a subject of the Vatican state, of which Pope Pius XI is head.

Other reports, unconfirmed, said the papal nuncio to Italy, Mgr. Francesco Borgongini-Duca, would resign, and that the Italian ambassador to the Vatican, Count De Vecchi, would quit. Their action, however, would not be taken until the controversy had definitely been settled.

OPTIMISTIC VIEW OF NORTHWEST AREA

MOUNTING BANK DEPOSITS, DECREASING UNEMPLOYMENT, SOUND BUSINESS

New York, June 11—(U.P.)—Mounting bank deposits, decreasing unemployment and sound business are typical of the northwest while other parts of the country complain of depression, according to Charles F. Collisson, farm editor of the Minneapolis Tribune.

"When farmer and business man really get together, a new agriculture is born," he said.

"This is exactly what has happened in the northwest."

"Our farmers have found out," Collison said, "that no act of congress or price fixing schemes can ever restore fertility to wheatsick soils, clean up weedy grain fields or raise sagging wheat yields per bushel. These and not price are the real wheat problems in the northwest. We came to the 'parting of the ways' as a wheat country 10 years ago. We have chosen the 'cow paths' to prosperity."

"'Good farming with good livestock' is claimed as the secret of the success of the farmer of the northwest today. He is working out his own farm relief, milking his own way out of debt and into prosperity."

Dempseys Fail to Agree on Property Settlement

San Francisco, June 11.—(U.P.)—Attorneys representing Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor in negotiations preceding a divorce suit conferred with their clients today after failing to agree on a property settlement.

Attorney John Taaffe, in whose San Francisco offices the lawyers met, said the former heavyweight champion and his film actress wife apparently were in agreement on only one issue—that there will be a divorce.

"We have made progress," the attorneys agreed. "The divorce is inevitable, and only awaits a settlement of community property."

OPTIMISTIC VIEW OF NORTHWEST AREA

MOUNTING BANK DEPOSITS, DECREASING UNEMPLOYMENT, SOUND BUSINESS

New York, June 11—(U.P.)—Mounting bank deposits, decreasing unemployment and sound business are typical of the northwest while other parts of the country complain of depression, according to Charles F. Collisson, farm editor of the Minneapolis Tribune.

"When farmer and business man really get together, a new agriculture is born," he said.

"This is exactly what has happened in the northwest."

"Our farmers have found out," Collison said, "that no act of congress or price fixing schemes can ever restore fertility to wheatsick soils, clean up weedy grain fields or raise sagging wheat yields per bushel. These and not price are the real wheat problems in the northwest. We came to the 'parting of the ways' as a wheat country 10 years ago. We have chosen the 'cow paths' to prosperity."

"'Good farming with good livestock' is claimed as the secret of the success of the farmer of the northwest today. He is working out his own farm relief, milking his own way out of debt and into prosperity."

Dempseys Fail to Agree on Property Settlement

San Francisco, June 11.—(U.P.)—Attorneys representing Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor in negotiations preceding a divorce suit conferred with their clients today after failing to agree on a property settlement.

Attorney John Taaffe, in whose San Francisco offices the lawyers met, said the former heavyweight champion and his film actress wife apparently were in agreement on only one issue—that there will be a divorce.

"We have made progress," the attorneys agreed. "The divorce is inevitable, and only awaits a settlement of community property."

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Everyone has an Adam's Apple—every man—every woman has one. Touch your Adam's Apple with your finger. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

"TOASTING" expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE—the modern cigarette. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" Process includes the use of Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret and exclusive heating process. It is this process that expels these harsh irritants. No wonder 20,679 American physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

It's Cold in the Stratosphere

ACCOUNTS in various newspapers and journals elaborate on the experience of Prof. August Piccard and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, in the stratosphere. One thing is certain, it is exceedingly cold in the rarefied air ten miles above the earth, over 100 degrees below zero centigrade, or more than 148 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

The moon is as bright during the daytime as it is seen from the earth in the middle of the night. The bluish mist of the atmosphere grows red-tinged. The earth goes into a copper-colored cloud, then almost disappears in a haze. At the altitude of ten miles the earth is a marvelous sight, yet it is terrifying too.

The two scientists were not concerned over the fact that they had broken the altitude record. They were deeply engrossed in their observations made at that height. The balloon lowered of its own accord to about 4,000 meters. Then care had to be exercised to save gas and not to lower rapidly on some inhospitable peak which would have wrecked balloon, instruments, observation records, and possibly endangered their lives.

Every true scientist, as is well known, thinks first of salvaging his records.

Readers of the Dispatch will remember how the balloon floated about on its slow descent and caused the fear to grow that they had perished and that the balloon was a derelict in the skies.

The gas vent jammed, making it impossible to deflate quickly. Two hours more and the oxygen supply would have been exhausted and they would have been dead men.

They suffered the extreme in heat, for the temperature of 106 degrees was recorded in the aluminum ball that carried them. It sheltered them from the 148 degree cold, the interior registering around zero. The air-tight chamber sprung a leak which they jammed successfully with pharmaceutical jelly and cotton waste.

Prof. Piccard, who first enthusiastically announced that this was but the forerunner of many more trips to the stratosphere, has been prevailed upon by his wife to cease upper air exploration. His assistant, Kipfer, probably unmarried, is convinced that a balloon bag properly built and provided with many gas chambers each regulated from the gondola by a separate valve, would rise as high as 100,000 feet or nearly 19 miles.

Submarine Exploration of North Pole

ALL Polar exploration has its dangers, whether done by the sledge parties of a Peary, or by Byrd in the air, or by Franklin aboard ship, or by Sir Hubert Wilkins with his submarine party.

The underwater venture is a new idea in exploration and all the world hopes the gallant party will meet with no mishap and that the results of their findings will be revealed to an expectant world.

Even the voyage across the Atlantic, unattended by an escort ship, carries its dangerous phases.

Of course, every one can see some instance or other which may prove fatal to the party. Should the Nautilus come up for fresh air and be caught in a closing ice crevasse, it's the end of crew and vessel. It will be crushed like an egg shell.

Should it creep into a blind alley among the icy peaks and valleys under water, and be buried under mountain high surface ice, its doom will be spelled. The point we have always insisted on is that there are two ice fields, that of the waters and immediately below water surface, and that of the primal field of century old ice which coats the bottom of the Polar region. Between these lower projecting ice peaks and overhanging huge icicles from upper waters, the Nautilus will be flitting about like a moth in the flames.

A New Factor in Trade

HUGE investments in foreign countries, the establishment of American branch factories in foreign countries, has brought about a new trade situation.

These products, cheaply made by foreign labor, seek to enter American markets and there will compete with American made goods produced by American workmen. On the one hand you have production under low wage old world conditions and on the other, American production under American wage standards.

Letting down the bars, lowering the tariff to permit freer entry of foreign made goods, knocks just that much of a prop from the home market and our home manufacturers and home workers.

Every conceivable kind of product is being made in the old world with American capital, American management, and American-trained workers.

Opening the home market in America to foreign invasion of goods will not aid the American worker, but it will benefit American-invested capital in foreign production.

Curtailing Passenger Train Service

THE Minnesota & International Railway company, applying to the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, is seeking to discontinue operation of certain passenger trains between Brainerd and Kelliher for the reason that, as they claim, very few passengers use the service and the company is losing large sums every month maintaining such service.

The hearing will be held Tuesday, June 23, at 11 a. m. at Walker. So far as known, it is believed that No. 31 and No. 32, which includes the afternoon passenger train at Brainerd, are affected. These trains carry to Brainerd many persons in the shopping area in Brainerd and others who wish to transact business at the court house, etc.

Towns along the line and affected by the proposed removal of the trains are reported to have secured representation at the Walker hearing.

Tariff on Grain

THE tariff on grain is generally effective until America faces a situation of Russian Soviet dumping. High wheat prices in the world's markets aid the American farmer and in turn aid the tariff in its exclusion of outside grain from American markets.

On April 28 wheat sold in Buenos Aires at 46 cents per bushel. The same day our wheat sold in Chicago at 82 cents per bushel. On the same day corn sold in Buenos Aires for 30 cents per bushel while corn in Chicago was 61 cents per bushel. The water rate on corn, from Buenos Aires to any port in North America, is 12 cents per bushel. Therefore, Argentine could unload at any American port at 42 cents per bushel were it not for our tariff of 25 cents per bushel. The tariff, in this case, makes our corn 18 cents per bushel more on the American markets.

Michael Hayes, sub-deacon; the Rev. James Hogan, assistant priest and Rev. S. Frederick of Crosby, first master of ceremonies.

Other ministers of the Mass included William Larkin, a brother, and Paul Koscielneak, acolytes; and Martin P. Larkin, another brother of Father Larkin, as censor bearer.

Music was furnished by the Saint Francis choir under the direction of Miss Mildred O'Brien, Martin J. Larkin, a cousin of the celebrant, played the organ accompaniment assisted by Julius Witham, violinist.

In addition the Common portions of the Mass which were taken from Newsham's "Mass of the Blessed Virgin,' the musical program included an Offertory solo, "Ave Maria" by Rosewige, sung by Mrs. M. D. Larkin of Barry, Minn.

Father Kiley chose as his sermon theme, "The Eternal Priesthood." He emphasized the fact that sacrifice is the central act of religion, "the highest form of worshpi," and pointed out that the offering of sacrifice is the principal work of the priest.

"What ancestory in any history of the world is so glorious as the ancestry of the Catholic priest with its 2,000 years of regal ancestral procession?"

In conclusion the speaker congratulated Father Larkin on his perseverance in his sacred calling.

Following the Mass a luncheon was tendered the new priest by the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters. About 300 relatives and friends were present. Speakers included Father Hogan and the Rev. John eLahy of Wibaux, Mont., Henry P. Dunn presided. Musical numbers were furnished by Dr. G. I. Badeaux and Mrs. M. D. Larkin. Among students of St. Paul seminary who attended the ceremony were Gerald Griffin of Brainerd; Paul Koscielniak of Minneapolis; Edward Grzeskoweak of Silver Lake; Leo White of Minneapolis; Joseph Lopota of Minneapolis, James Ward, Minneapolis; Albert Roy, Duluth; Michael Popesh, Ely; Joseph Ryan, Aitkin and Myron Currie, Hibbing.

CHARGES ILLEGAL TRANSPORTATION OF BEAVER HIDES

Virginia, Minn., June 11.—(U.P.)—F. J. Rosemeier, assistant county attorney, today issued a warrant for the arrest of C. R. Rhoades, Virginia aviator, charging illegal transportation of beaver hides.

The warrant was issued on complaint of the state game and fish department. The complaint said that on May 18 deputy game wardens in a raid on Rhoades' home seized 55 beaver skins.

Rhoades was said to be at his flying base at Tower. A report that Rhoades used his airplane to carry illegal shipments of fur to Canada was branded as "unlikely" by Rosemeier.

The value of the furs seized was about $1,000, Rosemeier said. Rhoades was said to be the operator of several fur farms as well as a flying school.

Boy of 17 Confesses He Was Sniper Who Killed 17 Year Girl

Cleveland, O., June 11.—(U.P.)—Leon Wazelweski, 17, confessed today, police said, as the sniper who killed Louise Gaudig, 17, Johnstown, Pa., as seh walked along a street here May 4.

Wazelewski, with a 15-year-old companion, was arrested in Chicago after they had been missing from their homes, located a short distance from where the girl was killed, for several weeks. The boy was immediately taken to the scene of the killing to reenact the alleged crime.

Miss Gaudig, making her first trip away from home, was visiting Cleveland relatives when she was slain. With a cousin, Miss Louise Desmond, she started out for an evening stroll. A small car sped past, a single shot was fired, and the girl fell, a bullet in her head. She died two days later in Cleveland Clinic hospital.

It's Cold in the Stratosphere

ACCOUNTS in various newspapers and journals elaborate on the experience of Prof. August Piccard and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, in the stratosphere. One thing is certain, it is exceedingly cold in the rarefied air ten miles above the earth, over 100 degrees below zero centigrade, or more than 148 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

The moon is as bright during the daytime as it is seen from the earth in the middle of the night. The bluish mist of the atmosphere grows red-tinged. The earth goes into a copper-colored cloud, then almost disappears in a haze. At the altitude of ten miles the earth is a marvelous sight, yet it is terrifying too.

The two scientists were not concerned over the fact that they had broken the altitude record. They were deeply engrossed in their observations made at that height. The balloon lowered of its own accord to about 4,000 meters. Then care had to be exercised to save gas and not to lower rapidly on some inhospitable peak which would have wrecked balloon, instruments, observation records, and possibly endangered their lives.

Every true scientist, as is well known, thinks first of salvaging his records.

Readers of the Dispatch will remember how the balloon floated about on its slow descent and caused the fear to grow that they had perished and that the balloon was a derelict in the skies.

The gas vent jammed, making it impossible to deflate quickly. Two hours more and the oxygen supply would have been exhausted and they would have been dead men.

They suffered the extreme in heat, for the temperature of 106 degrees was recorded in the aluminum ball that carried them. It sheltered them from the 148 degree cold, the interior registering around zero. The air-tight chamber sprung a leak which they jammed successfully with pharmaceutical jelly and cotton waste.

Prof. Piccard, who first enthusiastically announced that this was but the forerunner of many more trips to the stratosphere, has been prevailed upon by his wife to cease upper air exploration. His assistant, Kipfer, probably unmarried, is convinced that a balloon bag properly built and provided with many gas chambers each regulated from the gondola by a separate valve, would rise as high as 100,000 feet or nearly 19 miles.

Submarine Exploration of North Pole

ALL Polar exploration has its dangers, whether done by the sledge parties of a Peary, or by Byrd in the air, or by Franklin aboard ship, or by Sir Hubert Wilkins with his submarine party.

The underwater venture is a new idea in exploration and all the world hopes the gallant party will meet with no mishap and that the results of their findings will be revealed to an expectant world.

Even the voyage across the Atlantic, unattended by an escort ship, carries its dangerous phases.

Of course, every one can see some instance or other which may prove fatal to the party. Should the Nautilus come up for fresh air and be caught in a closing ice crevasse, it's the end of crew and vessel. It will be crushed like an egg shell.

Should it creep into a blind alley among the icy peaks and valleys under water, and be buried under mountain high surface ice, its doom will be spelled. The point we have always insisted on is that there are two ice fields, that of the waters and immediately below water surface, and that of the primal field of century old ice which coats the bottom of the Polar region. Between these lower projecting ice peaks and overhanging huge icicles from upper waters, the Nautilus will be flitting about like a moth in the flames.

A New Factor in Trade

HUGE investments in foreign countries, the establishment of American branch factories in foreign countries, has brought about a new trade situation.

These products, cheaply made by foreign labor, seek to enter American markets and there will compete with American made goods produced by American workmen. On the one hand you have production under low wage old world conditions and on the other, American production under American wage standards.

Letting down the bars, lowering the tariff to permit freer entry of foreign made goods, knocks just that much of a prop from the home market and our home manufacturers and home workers.

Every conceivable kind of product is being made in the old world with American capital, American management, and American-trained workers.

Opening the home market in America to foreign invasion of goods will not aid the American worker, but it will benefit American-invested capital in foreign production.

Curtailing Passenger Train Service

THE Minnesota & International Railway company, applying to the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, is seeking to discontinue operation of certain passenger trains between Brainerd and Kelliher for the reason that, as they claim, very few passengers use the service and the company is losing large sums every month maintaining such service.

The hearing will be held Tuesday, June 23, at 11 a. m. at Walker. So far as known, it is believed that No. 31 and No. 32, which includes the afternoon passenger train at Brainerd, are affected. These trains carry to Brainerd many persons in the shopping area in Brainerd and others who wish to transact business at the court house, etc.

Towns along the line and affected by the proposed removal of the trains are reported to have secured representation at the Walker hearing.

Tariff on Grain

THE tariff on grain is generally effective until America faces a situation of Russian Soviet dumping. High wheat prices in the world's markets aid the American farmer and in turn aid the tariff in its exclusion of outside grain from American markets.

On April 28 wheat sold in Buenos Aires at 46 cents per bushel. The same day our wheat sold in Chicago at 82 cents per bushel. On the same day corn sold in Buenos Aires for 30 cents per bushel while corn in Chicago was 61 cents per bushel. The water rate on corn, from Buenos Aires to any port in North America, is 12 cents per bushel. Therefore, Argentine could unload at any American port at 42 cents per bushel were it not for our tariff of 25 cents per bushel. The tariff, in this case, makes our corn 18 cents per bushel more on the American markets.

Ella A. Boole, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who has been vice president of the World's W. C. T. U., as well as president of the United States branch, was elected president of the world-wide dry organization at its convention held at Toronto, Ontario, Canada. At the conference of W. C. T. U. workers at which Mrs. Boole (above) was elected, the organization went on record in opposition to putting the government in the liquor busine)

REV. HENRY LARKIN SAYS FIRST MASS

Impressive Ceremony Marks Entry of Brainerd Son in Priestly Ministry

Marking the beginning of his priestly ministry the Rev. Henry Larkin of this city today said his First Solemn Mass at St. Francis of Assisi church.

Father Larkin, son of Mrs. P. H. Larkin, was ordained June 4 at the Saint. Paul seminary in St. Paul by the Most Rev. William Busch, bishop of Saint Cloud.

Rev. Phillip H. Kiley, J. C. D., of Aitkin delivered the sermon of the Mass. Assisting the newly ordained priest were the Rev. Lawrence A. Glenn of Duluth, deacon of the Mass; the Rev. Michael Hayes, sub-deacon; the Rev. James Hogan, assistant priest and Rev. S. Frederick of Crosby, first master of ceremonies.

Other ministers of the Mass included William Larkin, a brother, and Paul Koscielneak, acolytes; and Martin P. Larkin, another brother of Father Larkin, as censor bearer.

"What ancestory in any history of the world is so glorious as the ancestry of the Catholic priest with its 2,000 years of regal ancestral procession?"

In conclusion the speaker congratulated Father Larkin on his perseverance in his sacred calling.

NOTED OPERA SINGER SUES EDWIN CAREWE

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK ASSERTS HE BROKE CONTRACT TO PRODUCE PICTURES

Los Angeles, June 11.—(U.P.)—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, noted opera singer, admitted in court that she may be a dumb-bell, but said she couldn't help it.

The diva made the admission voluntarily while testifying during trial of producer, for asserted breach of conher suit against Edwin Carewe, film tract. She is demanding $75,000 and her son, Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, is asking $11,000. They charge that Carewe failed to keep an agreement entered into October 3, 1929, to produce a motion picture starring the singer.

When W. I. Gilbert asked if she had any records of correspondence with Carewe, Mme. Schumann-Heink became indignant and said:

"I lost the whole season. I can't tell you the dates of the contracts I lost, but I can tell you one thing—I am a hard working woman. I have no secretary; I have no servants; I've earned every cent I have made in my life. Maybe I'm just a dumb-bell, but I can't help that."

"Yes," interposed Gilbert, "but I asked you about the dates of the contracts."

"I've already told you that this picture contract ruined my chances for the season," the diva replied. "I earned nothing, absolutely nothing, because of this picture contract."

Carewe testified that Mme. Schumann-Heink and her son understood that the making of the picture depended upon the ability of an English company to raise funds to produce it in London and that the businesss depression had made this impossible.

The case is expected to be completed today.

NIGHT WATCHMAN DROWNED IN LAKE

Stillwater, Minn., June 11.—(U.P.)—John Vandersypt, 54, Stillwater, employed by Butler Brothers as a night watchman for their St. Paul sewage tunnels, was drowned today at Lily lake.

Vandersypt went fishing at 10 a. m. this moorning on the lake and two hours later his dog was heard barking along the shore. The body was recovered at 2:30 p. m.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Alfonso and Frank, both of St. Paul, and three daughters, Alvira, St. Paul, Elfen and Elsie, both of Elizabeth, N. J.

DOUBLE SHOOTING IN NORTH WOODS

BODIES OF YOUNG PRIZE FIGHTER AND ATTRACTIVE DIVORCEE FOUND

North Adams, Mass., June 11.—(U.P.)—Bodies of a young prize-fighter and an attractive divorcee who had planned to marry, were found under mysterious circumstances in the home of the woman's father here today.

Both had been shot through the head.

The victims were Clayton Utting, 28, formerly of Syracuse, N. Y., known in the prize ring as Young Utting, and Mrs. Evelyn Gary Medlock, 27.

Although Medical Examiner James W. Bunce first believed it was a murder and suicide—a .32 calibre automatic pistol was clutched in the dead man's right hand — subsequent evidence caused him to change this theory.

Both victims were clothed. They had been dead several hours, and indications were that the double shooting occurred after the couple had enjoyed a last supper together.

Birds Lured From Seedlings

Scarecrows of various kinds were unsuccessful in keeping birds from the pine seedlings in a Texas nursery. The tender plants were repeatedly attacked by the birds and thousands of plants were destroyed. The birds were offered a substitute meal in the shape of oats planted between the rows of seedlings and the result was they soon went after the grain and left the seedlings undisturbed.

Los Angeles, June 11.—(U.P.)—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, noted opera singer, admitted in court that she may be a dumb-bell, but said she couldn't help it.

The diva made the admission voluntarily while testifying during trial of producer, for asserted breach of conher suit against Edwin Carewe, film tract. She is demanding $75,000 and her son, Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, is asking $11,000. They charge that Carewe failed to keep an agreement entered into October 3, 1929, to produce a motion picture starring the singer.

When W. I. Gilbert asked if she had any records of correspondence with Carewe, Mme. Schumann-Heink became indignant and said:

"I lost the whole season. I can't tell you the dates of the contracts I lost, but I can tell you one thing—I am a hard working woman. I have no secretary; I have no servants; I've earned every cent I have made in my life. Maybe I'm just a dumb-bell, but I can't help that."

"Yes," interposed Gilbert, "but I asked you about the dates of the contracts."

"I've already told you that this picture contract ruined my chances for the season," the diva replied. "I earned nothing, absolutely nothing, because of this picture contract."

Carewe testified that Mme. Schumann-Heink and her son understood that the making of the picture depended upon the ability of an English company to raise funds to produce it in London and that the businesss depression had made this impossible.

The case is expected to be completed today.

NIGHT WATCHMAN DROWNED IN LAKE

Stillwater, Minn., June 11.—(U.P.)—John Vandersypt, 54, Stillwater, employed by Butler Brothers as a night watchman for their St. Paul sewage tunnels, was drowned today at Lily lake.

Vandersypt went fishing at 10 a. m. this moorning on the lake and two hours later his dog was heard barking along the shore. The body was recovered at 2:30 p. m.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Alfonso and Frank, both of St. Paul, and three daughters, Alvira, St. Paul, Ellen and Elsie, both of Elizabeth, N. J.

DOUBLE SHOOTING IN NORTH WOODS

BODIES OF YOUNG PRIZE FIGHTER AND ATTRACTIVE DIVORCEE FOUND

North Adams, Mass., June 11.—(U.P.)—Bodies of a young prize-fighter and an attractive divorcee who had planned to marry, were found under mysterious circumstances in the home of the woman's father here today.

Both had been shot through the head.

The victims were Clayton Utting, 28, formerly of Syracuse, N. Y., known in the prize ring as Young Utting, and Mrs. Evelyn Gary Medlock, 27.

Although Medical Examiner James W. Bunce first believed it was a murder and suicide—a .32 calibre automatic pistol was clutched in the dead man's right hand — subsequent evidence caused him to change this theory.

Both victims were clothed. They had been dead several hours, and indications were that the double shooting occurred after the couple had enjoyed a last supper together.

Birds Lured From Seedlings

Scarecrows of various kinds were unsuccessful in keeping birds from the pine seedlings in a Texas nursery. The tender plants were repeatedly attacked by the birds and thousands of plants were destroyed. The birds were offered a substitute meal in the shape of oats planted between the rows of seedlings and the result was they soon went after the grain and left the seedlings undisturbed.

Public Relations Director of Elks Magazine Catches Wall-Eyed Pike on Gull Lake

IS FETED AT BANQUET

Fish Dinner Served at Inwood Lodge to 35 or More Elks

Enjoying a fishing trip Tuesday on Gull Lake in company with Past Exalted Ruler Dr. A. K. Cohen, Harry K. Maples, Public Relations Director of the Elks Magaznie and pilot of car No. 1 of the Elks "Good Will" fleet, caught two beautiful wall-eyed pike. In the short period on the lake Mr. Maples showed his skill with rod and reel.

In the evening he was guest of honor at the fish dinner given by the Elks at Inwood. Cuisine was excellent and highly commented on.

Dr. Cohen, as toastmaster, announced the first speaker, Exalted Ruler Arthur J. Sullivan, who extended greetings to Mr. Maples; Lannie Horne editor of the Jolly Elk; Tony Pleva director of the tour through northern Minnesota; Al Mattes third Exalted Ruler of Brainerd lodge and now a resident of Santa Monica, Calif.; A M. Wagner and H. W. Wolmack members of Minneapolis Lodge No. 44.

Tony Pleva referred to a former piece of publicity work in the north in which Brainerd cooperated in whole hearted fashion like the present occasion. Through his endeavors the "Good Will" tour had touched seven intsead of three Minnesota cities and had included Brainerd.

Al Mattes was glad to see some of the old faces of early Brainerd lodge history. He spent eleven of his happiest years in Brainerd, he said. He came to Brainerd in 1894, was married here in 1896 and their only daughter was born ot them in 1898. He joined the charter roll of the lodge in 1900. The initiations in the old days gave a candidate a razzing he would never forget. He treasured his gold card from Brainerd lodge which conferred an honorary life membership for meritorious work performed.

J. J. Nolan, Past Exalted Ruler, spoke of the early days and paid tribute to the work done by Mr. Mattes.

Dr. A. A. Steinfeldt spoke briefly. Henry Mills of Mills Motor, Inc., dealers of Firestone tires which were standard equipment in the Elks pilot car, spoke of the trip made by the car.

Lannie Horne, editor of the Jolly Elk recounted experiences. H. W. Wolmack and A. M. Wagner spoke briefly. Past Exalted Ruler John A. Hoffbauer spoke of the value of newspaper publicity locally and of publicity in the Elks national magazine and Lannie Horne's Jolly Elk. The brothers would be well repaid if Mr. Maples recorded some of his impressions of Brainerd, the lodge and the lake region, in the national magazine.

Past Exalted Ruler G. S. Swanson paid a tribute to Mr. Mattes as an employer and referred to the days when he directed the large lumber mill in Brainerd. Mr. Swanson expected to visit Mr. Mattes on the coast when he attended the Elks national convention at Seattle.

Secretary John J. Cummins spoke of the Elks magazine and the good it accomplished.

Past Exalted Ruler C. C. Van Essen gave remniniscences.

Mr. Maples, guest of the evening, expressed his pleasure that re-routing his itinerary had brought him to Brainerd and the lake country. He has now been touring since May 1 and the lodges visited to date had been increased from the original 6 to 82. He had never seen a finer spirit of fellowship than in Brainerd.

The tour, said Mr. Maples, is to create greater interest in the national publication, the Elks magazine. The magazine is a credit to all Elkdom and the funds derived are used in many praiseworthy projects, sustaining the Elks home, completing the Elks national headquarters, etc. Mr Maples promised to have Minnesota mentioned prominently in his tour and due space accorded to Brainerd and the lake country.

Personal contact among the members is always a great factor in the upbuilding of any lodge, said Mr. Maples, and he gave instances in some of the lodges he had visited. If a member stayed away three meetings, a follow up campaign was set in motion and a brother visited him to inquire the reason of his absence.

In closing, the speaker thanked all who had made his visit such a happy one. The session concluded with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

The dinner was staged in the new specious dining hall of Inwood lodge. Its log construction was admired by all present. It represents quite an investment and is an indication of the faith the Archer Sisters have in the lake country.

JUDGING CONTEST OPEN TO FARMERS

Word has just been received from W. E. Morris, Extension Animal Husbandman, University Farm, St. Paul, that this year will be the inauguration of a general livestock judging contest for farmers, to be held at the State Fair on Friday, September 11. The competition will be on the basis of teams representing counties, the team to consist of three men to be selected by the county agent in his county.

Professional judges, county agents and Smith-Hughes instructors are barred from competition. The team must be made up of farmers. What constitutes a farmer will be left to the discretion of the county agent in selecting his team. By that means that he will select only men or boys from his county who would pass as farmers in the eyes of the county people. The teams will be required to judge two classes each of beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine. Reasons will be taken on one of each of these classes.

The Minnesota Livestock Breeders' Association is offering $100.00 for the expenses of the winning team, with the coach, towards a trip to the International.

Medals also will be given for first, second and third places in the contest, and for high man in each of the classes.

Farmers who are interested in entering this judging contest, kindly let County Agent E. G. Roth know as soon as possible.

NEW GOLF BALL BEING PUT THROUGH COMPREHENSIVE TEST

New York, June 11.—(U.P.)—Because of the adverse criticism it has received, the new golf ball is being put through a comprehensive test by the United States Golf association.

The United Press learned yesterday that the U. S. G. A. is conducting a survey on the merits of the new ball by collecting data on scores made in major competition this year as compared to scores made last season with the old ball and comparing the handicaps of the 1930 season with those allotted in 1931. In addition the association is studying the action of the new ball.

JUDGING CONTEST OPEN TO FARMERS

Word has just been received from W. E. Morris, Extension Animal Husbandman, University Farm, St. Paul, that this year will be the inauguration of a general livestock judging contest for farmers, to be held at the State Fair on Friday, September 11. The competition will be on the basis of teams representing counties, the team to consist of three men to be selected by the county agent in his county.

Professional judges, county agents and Smith-Hughes instructors are barred from competition. The team must be made up of farmers. What constitutes a farmer will be left to the discretion of the county agent in selecting his team. By that means that he will select only men or boys from his county who would pass as farmers in the eyes of the county people. The teams will be required to judge two classes each of beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine. Reasons will be taken on one of each of these classes.

The Minnesota Livestock Breeders' Association is offering $100.00 for the expenses of the winning team, with the coach, towards a trip to the International.

Medals also will be given for first, second and third places in the contest, and for high man in each of the classes.

Farmers who are interested in entering this judging contest, kindly let County Agent E. G. Roth know as soon as possible.

NEW GOLF BALL BEING PUT THROUGH COMPREHENSIVE TEST

New York, June 11.—(U.P.)—Because of the adverse criticism it has received, the new golf ball is being put through a comprehensive test by the United States Golf association.

The United Press learned yesterday that the U. S. G. A. is conducting a survey on the merits of the new ball by collecting data on scores made in major competition this year as compared to scores made last season with the old ball and comparing the handicaps of the 1930 season with those allotted in 1931. In addition the association is studying the action of the new ball.

INEZ WORDEN GIVES TALK AT ROTARY

Ogden, Utah Girl Tells of Her Adventurous Trips Throughout Two Years Spent in Europe

FACED DEATH MANY TIMES

Harry K. Maples of Elks Tour Speaks Briefly—Rotary Outing at Inwood This Evening

The program committee of the Rotary club secured a paid speaker, Miss Ines Worden of Ogden, Utah, for the last meeting and she recounted her experiences of two years of traveling in Europe, some of them bringing her near death in storms at sea or in crossing perilous snow bridges of the Alps. In Ireland she kissed the blarney stone. She and her sister visited a lord's estate as well as the homes of the cottagers. The northern Irish are more reserved than those in the south. In Scotland they invested in kilts. Out on the farms it is common practice to have the stable just off the kitchen and bedroom, and a cow moo'ed in her ear and woke her in the morning.

In France there was difficulty in ordering ham and eggs. Later on she learned French and the language was an aid on the continent. Disregarding warnings she and her sister ascended the snowy incline to the monastery in the Alpine regions and nearly slipped through crevasses to the mountain torrents below.

Italy had soldiers everywhere. Plain clothes men ordered them from the street when they sought a close up view of Premier Mussolini's home. In Norway she had an experience with the fishing fleet and the tiny boat nearly foundered in the storm.

The most interesting and dangerous exploit was touring through Lapland in a flat bottomed boat, eating dog meat and sleeping on chests cushioned with hay.

Among the common people of Europe the general idea about America is that it is a land with many high cloud piercing buildings, that the people have so much money they do not know how to spend it.

Harry K. Maples of the Elks magazine pilot tour, purple and white fleet, recounted his experiences. He was impressed with the people of Minnesota, the wonderful scenery of lakes and streams, woods and dales, and claimed that what Minnesota needed was effective publicity to let New York state know just what wonderful treasures of hunting and fishing and recreation there are in this great country. If residents of the Empire State were fully aware of what this northern country has to offer, there would be a steady stream of tourists.

Announcement was made of the annual outing and dinner of the Rotary club, members and their wives, which this evening will be held at Inwood Lodge on Gull and Margaret Lakes.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all relatives, neighbors, and friends who have been so kind to us during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father; especially do we wish to thank Rev. Says He's Not Guilty of Using Strong Words

The charge arose from a conversation with a lady, it was reported. The hearing was set for June 15.

ECONOMY DECREE OF GERMANS STUDIED

TEUTON CABINET MAY RESIGN IF ITS FOES TRY TO DEFEAT DECREE

Berlin, June 11.—(U.P.)—The cabinet met today and agreed at least to listen to proposals for modifying the new presidential economy decree, although it was understood Chancellor Heinrich Bruening intimated the entire cabinet might resign if its foes tried to defeat the decree.

Bruening and Finance Minister Julius Curtius reported on their reparations talk with the British. Bruening was reported to have threatened the government's resignation if the Reichstag's steering committee voted for an immediate special session of the Reichstag to enable the government's opponents to try to rescind the decree.

Bruening was understood, however, to have finally suggested the readiness of the government to hear the various parties' proposals for modification of the decree.

Next Friday the chancellor will proceed to Neudeck, West Prussia, to inform President Von Hindenburg, vacationing there, regarding the Chequers conversations.

The chancellor conferred with party leaders, whom he told that reconstruction of the cabinet at present was undesirable. He referred especially to the conservatives' demand for removal of Curtius and Herman Robert Dietrich, minister of finance.

Famous Dietitians Advise Health Combination Foods

Every one knows that milk is one of the most wonderful of foods. It is so rich in healthful minerals and vitamins. It supplies many elements needed for building strong bodies. Dietitians say that most children need a quart of milk each day.

One of the best ways to serve milk is with a crisp ready-to-eat cereal. Kellogg's Corn Flakes are a particularly fine "companion" food for milk. These crunchy-crisp flakes take up milk readily and children love their "wonder" flavor.

A bowl of corn flakes and milk or cream makes a delicious lunch combination and it is fine to serve for the children's evening meal. In fact, many dietitians say this is one of the best dishes for a child's supper. Healthful and so easy to digest, it really promotes restful sleep.

A ready-to-eat cereal and milk is also one of the easiest of all dishes to prepare—a real time and labor saver.

So, for health's sake, for all-round deliciousness and for convenience—serve cereals and milk or cream each day.

PRICES FIRMING UP IN MARKET

TENDENCY IN EARLY TRADING IS SLIGHTLY TOWARDS HIGHER LEVELS

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, June 11.—Prices firmed up fractionally at the opening on the stock exchange today in moderate turnover. The tendency in the early trading was toward slightly higher levels, especially in the leaders.

Amusement shares were firm with Radio-Keith-Orpheum active around 14 where it was up 3-8. Fox Film A rose to 20½ up 3 points on 5,000 shares reflecting satisfaction over the action of directors in placing the stock on a $2.50 annual basis, against $4 paid previously. Many traders had expected a more drastic reduction.

U. S. Steel opened at 91 3-8 up 1-8 and later firmed up fractionally.

The "tiniest aviatrix in the world," Margery Brown (above), was granted a divorce in Reno the other day when she said that while she loved babies, her husband, Sanford Brown, millionaire manufacturer, forbade her to have any—Margery is only four feet eleven inches tall and when she took her first solo flight in 1927 at New York, she had to sit on a soap box and pillow to see above the cockpit.

Murder and Suicide Inspired by Breaking of Youthful Romance

North Adams, Mass., June 11.—(U.P.)—Murder and suicide inspired by the breaking of a romance shortly before the weddnig day was the police explanation today of the mysterious fatal shootings of a prize fighter and his diminutive fiancee.

Solution of the mystery was announced after several hours, investigation of the deaths of Clayton "Young" Utting, 28, formerly of Syracuse, N. Y., a middleweight boxer, and Mrs. Evelyn Cary Medlock, 27-year-old divorcee, whose bodies were found not far apart in the home of the woman's father today.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Johnson's Pharmacy, H. P. Dunn say HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back. advt.

PRICES FIRMING UP IN MARKET

TENDENCY IN EARLY TRADING IS SLIGHTLY TOWARDS HIGHER LEVELS

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, June 11.—Prices firmed up fractionally at the opening on the stock exchange today in moderate turnover. The tendency in the early trading was toward slightly higher levels, especially in the leaders.

Amusement shares were firm with Radio-Keith-Orpheum active around 14 where it was up 3-8. Fox Film A rose to 20½ up 3 points on 5,000 shares reflecting satisfaction over the action of directors in placing the stock on a $2.50 annual basis, against $4 paid previously. Many traders had expected a more drastic reduction.

U. S. Steel opened at 91 3-8 up 1-8 and later firmed up fractionally.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Johnson's Pharmacy, H. P. Dunn say HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back. advt.

MISSING HEIRESS FOUND SAFE TODAY

MISS RUTH ALDRIDGE, YOUNG ROCKEFELLER'S NIECE, WAS WITH SCHOOL CHUM

Lynnfield, Mass., June 11.—(UP)—After she had been reported missing last night, Miss Ruth Aldrich, 19-year-old niece of John D. Rockefeller Jr., was found today, safe and sound, at the home of a school chum here.

Her father, Edward B. Aldrich, of Warwick, R. I., came here for her later and she left with him. Aldrich said the report of her disappearance was due to a misunderstanding.

The young woman spent the night with Miss Mary Harnden, daughter of J. M. Harnden and a classmate of Miss Aldrich at the exclusive house in the Pines School at Norton. Miss Aldrich said she and Miss Harnden motored here from Norton last night.

On the basis of reports of her disappearance, Rhode Island police believed last night the girl might have been kidnaped.

PEARL'S BID TO PROSPECT LAND NEAR BRAINERD

PERMIT ALLOWS THE MINERAL RIGHTS ON ORE DISCOVERED, 12.02c PER TON

8 MILES NORTHEAST OF BRAINERD; 3 MILES FROM THE RIVERTON AREA

St. Paul, Minn., June —(UP)—Permission has been granted to Holman I. Pearl, Crosby engineer, to prospect in state owned land near Brainerd for iron ore, State Superintendent of Mines F. A. Wild said today.

The permit allows Pearl mineral rights on any ore he discovers on an 80-acre tract of the swamp land which is an extension of the Cuyuna Range. Pearl's bid which was the only one received by the state executive council was 12.02 cents per ton.

The tract is located eight miles northeast of Brainerd. One operating mine shipping iron ore daily is located about three miles from the tract across the Mississippi river while several mines are being worked less than ten miles east of the tract, Wild said.

"The Mississippi river cuts through the extensions of the Cuyuna Range at this point," Wild said. "Possibilities of ore being found in the region have been considered good by many."

The minimum legal bid for prospecting ore is 12 cents per ton on 25 per cent ore with a five-cent increase on each one per cent increase in ore content.

WIND, RAIN STORM SWEEP SO. DAKOTA

Ipswich, S. D., June 11.—(UP)—Residents worked in crews today to clear away debris left by a wind and rain storm that swept through the eastern section of the state.

Hail that killed poultry, lambs and pigs as well as doing considerable damage to crops interrupted communications with the outside world for several hours yesterday.

Several farm buildings east of here were demolished by the wind which reached cyclonic proportions. Sixty windows were shattered in the Ipswich high school by hail.

It was estimated that six inches of rain was received during the storm.

Regular train service on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad was resumed today when the Olympian, Chicago to Seattle train, moved through a section of the main line at Mobridge which was broken yesterday by a washout.

MISSING HEIRESS FOUND SAFE TODAY

MISS RUTH ALDRIDGE, YOUNG ROCKEFELLER'S NIECE, WAS WITH SCHOOL CHUM

Lynnfield, Mass., June 11.—(U.P.)—After she had been reported missing last night, Miss Ruth Aldrich, 19-year-old niece of John D. Rockefeller Jr., was found today, safe and sound, at the home of a school chum here.

Her father, Edward B. Aldrich, of Warwick, R. I., came here for her later and she left with him. Aldrich said the report of her disappearance was due to a misunderstanding.

The young woman spent the night with Miss Mary Harnden, daughter of J. M. Harnden and a classmate of Miss Aldrich at the exclusive house in the Pines School at Norton. Miss Aldrich said she and Miss Harnden motored here from Norton last night.

On the basis of reports of her disappearance, Rhode Island police believed last night the girl might have been kidnaped.

BASEBALL TRADING DEADLINE IS ONLY FOUR DAYS AWAY

RUMORS OF TRADES IN MAJORS FLYING THICK AND FAST

NEW YORK'S 2 TEAMS, ST. LOUIS CARDS, BROOKLYN, ARE MENTIONED

CINCINNATI AND WASHINGTON ALSO FIGURE IN LAST MINUTE DEALS

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 11.—With the trading deadline only four days away, rumors of trades between major league clubs were flying thick and fast today.

New York's two teams, the St. Louis Cardinals, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Washington were the clubs figured prominently in the last minute trade talks. Any trades will have to be engineered before midnight, June 15, the deadline.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees is making no secret of his search for pitchers. It was reported the New York club was dickering with Washington yesterday, offering to send Tony Lazzeri to the Senators in exchange for Bump Hadley and Jackie Hayes.

The Giants and Brooklyn are after Red Lucas, star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds. Brooklyn also is after an outfielder who hits right handed. The Robins are said to have offered the Cardinals Johnny Frederick for Taylor Douthit. Both are center fielders, but Frederick is a left handed hitter while Douthit swings from the right side.

One of the players Washington received in a last minute trade with the Browns last year—Manush — figured prominently in the Senators' 9 to 4 victory over Cleveland yesterday. Manush got three of the ten hits Washington collected off Hudlin and Shoffner. The victory was the fifth in a row for the Senators and enabled them to creep within four and one half games of the Philadelphia Athletics, American League pace setters.

The contests scheduled between Chicago and ...ew York, Detroit and Boston and St. Louis and Philadelphia were postponed because of rain.

Although defeated 13 to 4 by Boston, the St. Louis Cardinals retained their four and a half game margin in the National League as the second place New York Giants lost to Pittsburgh, 5 to 1.

The Braves pounded Derringer, Lindsey and Kaufmann for 19 hits while Zachary held the Cardinals in check until the ninth inning when he was replaced by Cantwell.

French held the Giants to three scattered hits and would have scored a shut-out except for Grantham's error. The Pirates collected ten hits off four Giant hurlers.

The Chicago Cubs advanced to a tie with the Giants for second place by shutting out Philadelphia, 3 to 0. Root held the Phillies to four hits. Collins held the Cubs scoreless until the 7th inning when he was replaced by Stoner after he had permitted two runs. Chicago scored its third tally off Stoner before the side was retired.

Cincinnati continued its winning ways and trimmed the Brooklyn Robins, 10 to 3. Rixey held the Robins in hand while the Reds clouted Phelps and Moore for 14 hits.

Poverty Defined

The following definition of poverty is that of Dr. Robert W. Kelso, sociologist: "Poverty is that condition of living in which the individual, whether from lack of means or the failure to apply them, consistently fails to maintain himself and those properly dependent upon him at a plane of living high enough to insure continuous bodily and mental fitness to carry on permanently in his occupation and locality, and which allows him and them to live and function in their community with decency and self-respect."

Marking Historic Locations

Virginia claims to lead all the states in attention to historic locations and the marking of them for the information of visitors. "Writing history on iron instead of paper," state officials call it. Two-faced metal markers call attention to places of renown, and they are set in historic sequence. Thus the movements of armies in Civil war days and the inland spread of settlement from tidewater can be followed by the observant tourist.

Helping Mother

Gene was near by when her mother and a neighbor were discussing the approaching housecleaning problems. A few days later when the four-year-old's mother returned from an errand, the youngster, smiling, ran to meet her, saying:

"I helped you, mother. A woman wanted some old clothes and I cleaned out your closet."

SHIFTING OF LEADERS IN AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

COLONELS NOW IN LEAD, WIN OVER THE SAINTS

3 CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES OVER ERSTWHILE LONG-TIME PACE SETTERS

FIRST TIME LOUISVILLE PERCHED THAT HIGH FOR SEVERAL WEEKS

(By United Press)

Three consecutive victores over the erstwhile long-time pace setting St. Paul club put Louisville in the lead today in the American Association. It was the first time the Colonels had held the lead in several weeks.

By identical scores of 6 to 1, Louisville took both ends of a twin bill on the club's home lot yesterday. The winners hit safely 12 times in each game. In the first Hatter held the Saints to seven blows. Williams allowed them nine in the nightcap.

Columbus moved within .10 percentage points of St. Paul by beating Milwaukee, 7 to 4. With the hits 9 and 7 for the winners, the Brewers two errors were a big factor in their defeat.

The Kansas City Blues, on the down grade since the season was well under way, hit the cellar for the first time in losing to Toledo, 4 to 3. As has been the case consistently, the Blues were unable to make their blows count, losing on 9 to 8 for the Mudhens.

Horne of Indianapolis held Minneapolis to three hits and won, 3 to 0.

Today's schedule:
St. Paul at Louisville.
Milwaukee at Columbus.
Minneapolis at Indianapolis.
Kansas City at Toledo.

Rain Cancels Ball Game

Rain today forced the postponement of the practice game between the Y. M. C. A. and Southeast this evening. The city baseball league will get underway next week with Northeast meeting Southside Tuesday evening and the Southeast playing the Y. M. C. A. Thursday.

BASEBALL TRADING DEADLINE IS ONLY FOUR DAYS AWAY

RUMORS OF TRADES IN MAJORS FLYING THICK AND FAST

NEW YORK'S 2 TEAMS, ST. LOUIS CARDS, BROOKLYN, ARE MENTIONED

CINCINNATI AND WASHINGTON ALSO FIGURE IN LAST MINUTE DEALS

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 11.—With the trading deadline only four days away, rumors of trades between major league clubs were flying thick and fast today.

New York's two teams, the St. Louis Cardinals, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Washington were the clubs figured prominently in the last minute trade talks. Any trades will have to be engineered before midnight, June 15, the deadline.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Yankees is making no secret of his search for pitchers. It was reported the New York club was dickering with Washington yesterday, offering to send Tony Lazzeri to the Senators in exchange for Bump Hadley and Jackie Hayes.

The Giants and Brooklyn are after Red Lucas, star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds. Brooklyn also is after an outfielder who hits right handed. The Robins are said to have offered the Cardinals Johnny Frederick for Taylor Douthit. Both are center fielders, but Frederick is a left handed hitter while Douthit swings from the right side.

One of the players Washington received in a last minute trade with the Browns last year—Manush — figured prominently in the Senators' 9 to 4 victory over Cleveland yesterday. Manush got three of the ten hits Washington collected off Hudlin and Shoffner. The victory was the fifth in a row for the Senators and enabled them to creep within four and one half games of the Philadelphia Athletics, American League pace setters.

The contests scheduled between Chicago and ...ew York, Detroit and Boston and St. Louis and Philadelphia were postponed because of rain.

Although defeated 13 to 4 by Boston, the St. Louis Cardinals retained their four and a half game margin in the National League as the second place New York Giants lost to Pittsburgh, 5 to 1.

The Braves pounded Derringer, Lindsey and Kaufmann for 19 hits while Zachary held the Cardinals in check until the ninth inning when he was replaced by Cantwell.

French held the Giants to three scattered hits and would have scored a shut-out except for Grantham's error. The Pirates collected ten hits off four Giant hurlers.

The Chicago Cubs advanced to a tie with the Giants for second place by shutting out Philadelphia, 3 to 0. Root held the Phillies to four hits. Collins held the Cubs scoreless until the 7th inning when he was replaced by Stoner after he had permitted two runs. Chicago scored its third tally off Stoner before the side was retired.

Cincinnati continued its winning ways and trimmed the Brooklyn Robins, 10 to 3. Rixey held the Robins in hand while the Reds clouted Phelps and Moore for 14 hits.

Poverty Defined

The following definition of poverty is that of Dr. Robert W. Kelso, sociologist: "Poverty is that condition of living in which the individual, whether from lack of means or the failure to apply them, consistently fails to maintain himself and those properly dependent upon him at a plane of living high enough to insure continuous bodily and mental fitness to carry on permanently in his occupation and locality, and which allows him and them to live and function in their community with decency and self-respect."

Marking Historic Locations

Virginia claims to lead all the states in attention to historic locations and the marking of them for the information of visitors. "Writing history on iron instead of paper," state officials call it. Two-faced metal markers call attention to places of renown, and they are set in historic sequence. Thus the movements of armies in Civil war days and the inland spread of settlement from tidewater can be followed by the observant tourist.

Helping Mother

Gene was near by when her mother and a neighbor were discussing the approaching housecleaning problems. A few days later when the four-year-old's mother returned from an errand, the youngster, smiling, ran to meet her, saying:

"I helped you, mother. A woman wanted some old clothes and I cleaned out your closet."

COLONELS NOW IN LEAD, WIN OVER THE SAINTS

3 CONSECUTIVE VICTORIES OVER ERSTWHILE LONG-TIME PACE SETTERS

FIRST TIME LOUISVILLE PERCHED THAT HIGH FOR SEVERAL WEEKS

(By United Press)

Three consecutive victores over the erstwhile long-time pace setting St. Paul club put Louisville in the lead today in the American Association. It was the first time the Colonels had held the lead in several weeks.

By identical scores of 6 to 1, Louisville took both ends of a twin bill on the club's home lot yesterday. The winners hit safely 12 times in each game. In the first Hatter held the Saints to seven blows. Williams allowed them nine in the nightcap.

Columbus moved within .10 percentage points of St. Paul by beating Milwaukee, 7 to 4. With the hits 9 and 7 for the winners, the Brewers two errors were a big factor in their defeat.

The Kansas City Blues, on the down grade since the season was well under way, hit the cellar for the first time in losing to Toledo, 4 to 3. As has been the case consistently, the Blues were unable to make their blows count, losing on 9 to 8 for the Mudhens.

Horne of Indianapolis held Minneapolis to three hits and won, 3 to 0.

Today's schedule:
St. Paul at Louisville.
Milwaukee at Columbus.
Minneapolis at Indianapolis.
Kansas City at Toledo.

WASHINGTON FORMED TWO U. S. REGIMENTS

First and Third Infantry Are Oldest Army Units.

Washington.—It will surprise most Americans to learn that in their regular army of today there are two regiments which have come down intact from their organization during the lifetime of George Washington. According to the United States George Washington bicentennial commission, both these regiments were formed undoubtedly with Washington's advice and counsel, and the establishment of one of them must have had his official signature as first President of the United States.

What is now the Third United States infantry was formed in 1784 as a Pennsylvania regiment, authorized by an act of the Continental congress on June 7, 1784, and designated as "the regiment of infantry." This was six months or more after Washington's formal resignation as commander in chief of the armies. But during his subsequent presidency his hand may have left its imprint on the destiny of the regiment, in its official redesignations in 1789 and 1796, when it became the First infantry. Afterward in its history it went through other redesignations, but it still was the same organizations.

Proud of History.

As the Third infantry in the United States army of today, it is stationed at Fort Snelling in Minnesota, between Minneapolis and St. Paul. And are its officers proud of th ancient history of their outfit? The word yes can hardly be expressed with sufficient emphasis for an answer.

As a regiment of the United States army is entitled to decorate its flagstaff with a silver band for every battle in which it has fought, the staff of the Third infantry is thickly plated with them, for the list of its battle honors tells of a story of participation in nearly all the heaviest fighting of our history.

It figured in the War of 1812, in Florida in 1814. It was distinctly present at Lundy's lane. Its record includes service in the early Indian wars in New Mexico. During the Mexican war it fought at Palo Alto, Rosaca de la Palma, Monterey, Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo and Chapultepec. Its fighting in the Civil war began with the first Bull Run and included Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and Appomattox. During the Spanish war it distinguished itself at Santiago.

First Has Honors.

What is now the First regiment of infantry in the present United States army was authorized by the new congress of the United States in 1791, under Washington's presidency, and has another long list of battle honors to its credit in the official army register. Its glories were chiefly acquired in early wars with the Indians.

Not an officer, not a man of these regiments but looks with justifiable pride now and then at its silver-banded staff, and at the streamer which, with the flag, floats from it as a marker to its ancient and honorable history of service.

Man Spends Life Making List of World's Animals

London.—Half a lifetime has been spent by C. Davies Sherborn in making a complete list of all the world's animals.

It was in 1890 that Sherborn conceived the idea of preparing an exhaustive index of all the scientific names that had been applied to animals by naturalists, giving for each the exact date and place of publication. The work had proceeded so far by 1902 that the first part of his "Index Animalium," covering names introduced between 1758 and 1800 was published as a volume of 1,195 pages, and including over 65,000 names.

The second part was published in 1922, dealing with names between 1800 and 1850. Now the complete work is ready for the press, and it is estimated that it will include approximately half a million names of animals.

Even so, Sherborn's Index only deals with names up to 1850. A definite estimate of the total number of species known today is almost impossible. Zoologists estimate it at about three-quarters of a million.

Oxford university has conferred a degree of doctor of science, honoris causa, on Sherborn for his forty years' labor.

Duck's Black Eggs Upset New Jersey Scientists

Bridgeton, N. J.—For a long time, white ducks have been laying white eggs, and black ducks, white eggs. And science didn't get excited.

But now poultry fanciers are doing some fancy talking about a black duck that lays black eggs. So far, four black eggs in a row.

The duck is owned by Marvin Snowwhite, fifteen, of Bridgetown. Marvin broke the first egg, he was so excited. A hen's sitting on another. A third is being exhibited, and the fourth was opened and cooked. It was like other eggs.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XXVII.

"HOW would I know?" Bob replied irritably. "A woman. In a white dress That's how I saw her—the white dress—for she was half way across the grounds and it was dark. Seemed to be sneaking along. I stood there and I saw her sneak up to the back of the Summer house as if she was watching someone. There's vines or something, and they almost hid her. But she came out and went around to the other side; I saw her white dress on the other side of the house. Then she yelled something, it sounded like, 'That's enough' and I heard a shot."

"Sure it was a shot?"

"Ought to be; I've heard plenty of shooting."

"What did she do then?"

"I don't know. I didn't see her again. I ran across the lawn and she was gone. I looked inside and saw the woman on the floor."

There was a long pause, broken only by Millicent's sobbing, while the sick eyes stared at them all.

"I was going to call someone," Bob Trent went on at length. "Don't know why I didn't. Guess I must have been out of my head. What I did was come up here and grab a sheet out of the bundle of laundry on the porch. I took it back and covered her up. Then I got the car turned around and came home. That's all."

The too bright eyes closed; he seemed to lapse into stupor.

Against Time

After a time the others went into the little room and Millicent wept out an apology for purloining the cigarette lighter.

"You see I was afraid to have Bob tell. I—I didn't mean to harm Ted Frost—truly I didn't! Only I thought it would give them something to think about till they'd found the right one... Oh, what will become of us?

Walter tried to reassure her but his voice sounded flat. And all at once Bim knew that Walter did not quite believe Bob Trent's story and that Reynolds did not believe it at all! She knew it was this—an underlying suspicion of Bob Trent in Walter's mind—which accounted for his lack of definite action, his following false clews. He had been trying to shield the sick man, this broken hero they all loved, hoping something would turn up to substantiate his faith, wavering always between that faith and duty.

She loved Walter for it. It came to her that this moment of sudden knowledge had brought her a first realization of what love actually was.

In the shadows of the porch she saw Fred Burke, and knew all too well what his presence meant.

Imogene was waiting at the station house. A white and shaking Imogene, though her lips were pulled into a faint, malicious smile.

Bim did not know why she had followed the officers back since it was plain Walter did not wish her to, but now she was glad she had come. She was hoping against hope that something would happen before tomorrow morning; something which would save Bob from the arrest that Walter would be able to delay no longer.

She saw Walter give the girl a nod and watched Imogene attempt one of her flirtatious glances at him and at Reynolds.

"I suppose you've remembered something else?" Walter asked dryly.

"Anybody can forget things."

"If they try hard enough. Bad memory gets people into trouble, young lady."

"But you wouldn't let me get into trouble, would you, Mr. Vance? Not when you hear what it is I'm going to tell you."

"All right, Imogene; hurry on."

A Woman Scorned

The girl drew a breath and Bim saw the look of malice twist across her face again. She waited a moment and then spoke with dramatic clearness.

"I know who the man was the Baroness met in the garden."

"What?" Walter came to his feet. "You knew this and didn't tell?"

"I'm telling now, ain't I? Oh, sure, I suppose you'll make a racket." She seemed frightened all at once—frightened and unsure of herself. Bim wondered if she had acted hastily in coming here and was beginning to repent. Realizing in some strange way what was coming, Bim was more interested in Imogene now than in what she meant to say.

"I'm sorry," the maid continued more soberly. "Guess I didn't know how you'd feel about it. Anyway the man didn't have nothing to do with the murder."

"How do you know that?" Walter snapped.

"Because I seen him go out and I seen him come in and the murder was afterward. Anyway, he was in before 12 o'clock. The man," Imogene stated, "was Mr. Dole."

"Ah, the philandering Mr. Dole," observed Reynolds with elaborate sarcasm.

The sarcasm was lost on Imogene but not the implication, which seemed to throw her into fury. "You said it!" she sputtered. "It's this one and that one with him and true to nobody, that's what. We'll see can he go around telling lies to decent, hard-working girls."

"Dole been lying to you, Imogene?"

"Well, I don't care nothing about that. I'm through with him. What I want is justice done; that's all," she muttered in a way which indicated that this was by no means all she wanted. "Well, it's like I was telling you before. Mrs. Hardy sent me out of the dressing room about eleven thirty and I went up stairs."

"You said you were asleep in ten minutes, remember."

"Well, I wasn't. I started to undress and then I sat by the window a while—not very long, I guess. I seen the Baroness on the terrace; she was standing there like she was waiting for someone. And I seen who it was when William came from around by the kitchen. They began to talk and she took hold of his arm and they went down the path to the Summer house."

"How long were they gone"

"Not more'n fifteen minutes. Not him, anyway. He came back then."

"He came back alone?"

"Oh, sure. Had enough of her I guess. He went up the kitchen stairs. I sat a while longer and I was undressed and in bed when I heard the clock strike midnight."

"See anyone else in he garden?"

"No, I didn'," she replied sulkily. "I didn't see anyone or anything else about the old murder, in case you maybe get to thinking I'm not on the level about this."

They asked her more questions and finally let her go. And then they sent for William Dole and he was brought in, still self-possessed, though his eyes, Bim noticed, were harrassed.

He admitted the truth of Imogene's story simply, with a sort of fatalistic calm.

"I've been an awful fool," he said, stepping out of his butler character. "That's all, though—just a fool, not a murderer. When I think of her lying out there—dead—God!

"The story goes back a long time—ten years. She wasn't a Baroness then; she was a dancer, like myself. We danced together in 'Belle of Broadway' and I fell for her as everybody else was doing, only harder. Something about her to drive one mad... We—we went to Paris. We danced there and in London—all around. She ditched me when she began to get famous. I—well, you couldn't blame her. I wasn't anybody much and there was no limit to where she could go. Ambitious she was. You see?

"I didn't fall out of love with her, though. I came back here and did a little something on my own. But I kept remembering. Wanting to see her again. That's hard to understand, I guess."

Just Illusions

Walter said harshly, "Go on."

"I read in the paper she was coming to America—coming to visit Mrs. Hardy. So I got a job as butler, since I figured I couldn't get in any other way. Didn't expect to speak to her, you know. I just thought . . . Say, it's funny how things work out; the illusions you carry around."

"Illusions?"

The man looked up in surprise and shook his head. "Why, yes. When I did see her I knew I'd been kidding myself all these years. I wasn't in love with her at all and hadn't been for a long while. Don't understand that even yet. When I saw her that night she looked like just another woman to me."

"You told her this?"

"Well, she wanted to stir up the old thing, I suppose. Asked me to meet her in the garden. That—" he said with a glance at Bim, "—was what the note was about. I didn't want to go, but I did. We walked down to the Summer house and sat there a few minutes. She was angry and disappointed. I left her out there." He shook himself as one might upon awakening from a bad dream. "I said I'd been a fool.

"You understand," Walter asked him, "where you're standing now?"

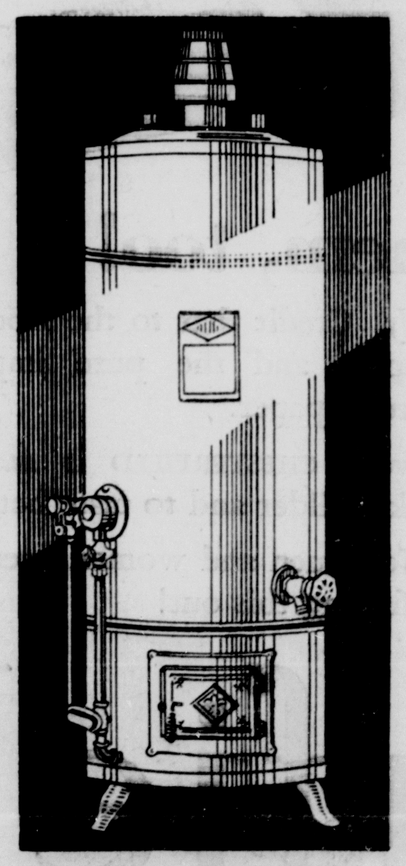

"Oh, . . . I'll not try to get away, if that's what you mean. I'm willing to take whatever's coming to me, I suppose. The price of folly."

Bim felt sorry for him as he went away slowly, his head down. Had he told the truth? She would have said yes. And yet. . . .

It was then that Chief Fury paid an unheard of midnight visit to the station house.

WASHINGTON FORMED TWO U. S. REGIMENTS

First and Third Infantry Are Oldest Army Units.

Washington.—It will surprise most Americans to learn that in their regular army of today there are two regiments which have come down intact from their organization during the lifetime of George Washington. According to the United States George Washington bicentennial commission, both these regiments were formed undoubtedly with Washington's advice and counsel, and the establishment of one of them must have had his official signature as first President of the United States.

What is now the Third United States infantry was formed in 1784 as a Pennsylvania regiment, authorized by an act of the Continental congress on June 7, 1784, and designated as "the regiment of infantry." This was six months or more after Washington's formal resignation as commander in chief of the armies. But during his subsequent presidency his hand may have left its imprint on the destiny of the regiment, in its official redesignations in 1789 and 1796, when it became the First infantry. Afterward in its history it went through other redesignations, but it still was the same organizations.

Proud of History.

As the Third infantry in the United States army of today, it is stationed at Fort Snelling in Minnesota, between Minneapolis and St. Paul. And are its officers proud of th ancient history of their outfit? The word yes can hardly be expressed with sufficient emphasis for an answer.

As a regiment of the United States army is entitled to decorate its flagstaff with a silver band for every battle in which it has fought, the staff of the Third infantry is thickly plated with them, for the list of its battle honors tells of a story of participation in nearly all the heaviest fighting of our history.

It figured in the War of 1812, in Florida in 1814. It was distinctly present at Lundy's lane. Its record includes service in the early Indian wars in New Mexico. During the Mexican war it fought at Palo Alto, Rosaca de la Palma, Monterey, Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo and Chapultepec. Its fighting in the Civil war began with the first Bull Run and included Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and Appomattox. During the Spanish war it distinguished itself at Santiago.

First Has Honors.

What is now the First regiment of infantry in the present United States army was authorized by the new congress of the United States in 1791, under Washington's presidency, and has another long list of battle honors to its credit in the official army register. Its glories were chiefly acquired in early wars with the Indians.

Not an officer, not a man of these regiments but looks with justifiable pride now and then at its silver-banded staff, and at the streamer which, with the flag, floats from it as a marker to its ancient and honorable history of service.

Man Spends Life Making List of World's Animals

London.—Half a lifetime has been spent by C. Davies Sherborn in making a complete list of all the world's animals.

It was in 1890 that Sherborn conceived the idea of preparing an exhaustive index of all the scientific names that had been applied to animals by naturalists, giving for each the exact date and place of publication. The work had proceeded so far by 1902 that the first part of his "Index Animalium," covering names introduced between 1758 and 1800 was published as a volume of 1,195 pages, and including over 65,000 names.

The second part was published in 1922, dealing with names between 1800 and 1850. Now the complete work is ready for the press, and it is estimated that it will include approximately half a million names of animals.

Even so, Sherborn's Index only deals with names up to 1850. A definite estimate of the total number of species known today is almost impossible. Zoologists estimate it at about three-quarters of a million.

Oxford university has conferred a degree of doctor of science, honoris causa, on Sherborn for his forty years' labor.

Duck's Black Eggs Upset New Jersey Scientists

Bridgeton, N. J.—For a long time, white ducks have been laying white eggs, and black ducks, white eggs. And science didn't get excited.

But now poultry fanciers are doing some fancy talking about a black duck that lays black eggs. So far, four black eggs in a row.

The duck is owned by Marvin Snowwhite, fifteen, of Bridgetown. Marvin broke the first egg, he was so excited. A hen's sitting on another. A third is being exhibited, and the fourth was opened and cooked. It was like other eggs.

Will Creates Sanctuary for Birds and Beasts

Hopkington, N. H.—A paradise for bird and beast will be created in a forest preserve here at a cost of half a million dollars. The sanctuary, to eventually cover 1,000 acres, has been made possible under the will of Samuel Myron Chase of this town and Chicago, who died recently.

$240,000,000 PARADES LOOP

Scene at doors of the Foreman-State National Bank of Chicago as $240,000,000 in cash and securities was started on the journey across the loop district to the First National Bank, following the merger of the two banks.

SAFETY FIRST

"What's the big idea of talking to yourself?" asked his old friend.

"I wasn't talking to myself, but to my wife," replied the meek little man.

"Why your wife isn't anywhere in sight!"

"I know it, but it's always safer to tell her what I was when she isn't within hearing distance."

Not Altogether

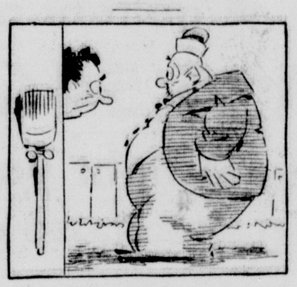

Lawyer—Was the man you found under the street car a total stranger?

Witness—No, sir, only a partial stranger.

Lawyer—What do you mean?

Witness—Well, you see, one arm and one leg were gone.

NEEDFUL SLEEP

"What! You here again for money for a night's lodgin'? Why, I just gave you money for that purpose last night."

"I know it, mum, but a feller's gotter sleep more'n wunst."

The Futile Bluff

Many a man has gone through life
On nothing but a barefaced bluff,
Except in dealing with his wife—
We'll say no more—we've said enough.

Optimist

First Native—What's this world coming to, anyhow?

Second Feller—It's coming to Mudville if we get the roads paved this summer.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER XXVII.

"HOW would I know?" Bob replied irritably. "A woman. In a white dress That's how I saw her—the white dress—for she was half way across the grounds and it was dark. Seemed to be sneaking along. I stood there and I saw her sneak up to the back of the Summer house as if she was watching someone. There's vines or something, and they almost hid her. But she came out and went around to the other side; I saw her white dress on the other side of the house. Then she yelled something, it sounded like, 'That's enough' and I heard a shot."

"Sure it was a shot?"

"Ought to be; I've heard plenty of shooting."

"What did she do then?"

"I don't know. I didn't see her again. I ran across the lawn and she was gone. I looked inside and saw the woman on the floor."

There was a long pause, broken only by Millicent's sobbing, while the sick eyes stared at them all.

"I was going to call someone," Bob Trent went on at length. "Don't know why I didn't. Guess I must have been out of my head. What I did was come up here and grab a sheet out of the bundle of laundry on the porch. I took it back and covered her up. Then I got the car turned around and came home. That's all."

The too bright eyes closed; he seemed to lapse into stupor.

Against Time

After a time the others went into the little room and Millicent wept out an apology for purloining the cigarette lighter.

"You see I was afraid to have Bob tell. I—I didn't mean to harm Ted Frost—truly I didn't! Only I thought it would give them something to think about till they'd found the right one... Oh, what will become of us?

Walter tried to reassure her but his voice sounded flat. And all at once Bim knew that Walter did not quite believe Bob Trent's story and that Reynolds did not believe it at all! She knew it was this—an underlying suspicion of Bob Trent in Walter's mind—which accounted for his lack of definite action, his following false clews. He had been trying to shield the sick man, this broken hero they all loved, hoping something would turn up to substantiate his faith, wavering always between that faith and duty.

She loved Walter for it. It came to her that this moment of sudden knowledge had brought her a first realization of what love actually was.

In the shadows of the porch she saw Fred Burke, and knew all too well what his presence meant.

Imogene was waiting at the station house. A white and shaking Imogene, though her lips were pulled into a faint, malicious smile.

Bim did not know why she had followed the officers back since it was plain Walter did not wish her to, but now she was glad she had come. She was hoping against hope that something would happen before tomorrow morning; something which would save Bob from the arrest that Walter would be able to delay no longer.

She saw Walter give the girl a nod and watched Imogene attempt one of her flirtatious glances at him and at Reynolds.

"I suppose you've remembered something else?" Walter asked dryly.

"Anybody can forget things."

"If they try hard enough. Bad memory gets people into trouble, young lady."

"But you wouldn't let me get into trouble, would you, Mr. Vance? Not when you hear what it is I'm going to tell you."

"All right, Imogene; hurry on."

A Woman Scorned

The girl drew a breath and Bim saw the look of malice twist across her face again. She waited a moment and then spoke with dramatic clearness.

"I know who the man was the Baroness met in the garden."

"What?" Walter came to his feet. "You knew this and didn't tell?"

"I'm telling now, ain't I? Oh, sure, I suppose you'll make a racket." She seemed frightened all at once—frightened and unsure of herself. Bim wondered if she had acted hastily in coming here and was beginning to repent. Realizing in some strange way what was coming, Bim was more interested in Imogene now than in what she meant to say.

"I'm sorry," the maid continued more soberly. "Guess I didn't know how you'd feel about it. Anyway the man didn't have nothing to do with the murder."

"How do you know that?" Walter snapped.

"Because I seen him go out and I seen him come in and the murder was afterward. Anyway, he was in before 12 o'clock. The man," Imogene stated, "was Mr. Dole."

"Ah, the philandering Mr. Dole," observed Reynolds with elaborate sarcasm.

The sarcasm was lost on Imogene but not the implication, which seemed to throw her into fury. "You said it!" she sputtered. "It's this one and that one with him and true to nobody, that's what. We'll see can he go around telling lies to decent, hard-working girls."

"Dole been lying to you, Imogene?"

"Well, I don't care nothing about that. I'm through with him. What I want is justice done; that's all," she muttered in a way which indicated that this was by no means all she wanted. "Well, it's like I was telling you before. Mrs. Hardy sent me out of the dressing room about eleven thirty and I went up stairs."

"You said you were asleep in ten minutes, remember."

"Well, I wasn't. I started to undress and then I sat by the window a while—not very long, I guess. I seen the Baroness on the terrace; she was standing there like she was waiting for someone. And I seen who it was when William came from around by the kitchen. They began to talk and she took hold of his arm and they went down the path to the Summer house."

"How long were they gone"

"Not more'n fifteen minutes. Not him, anyway. He came back then."

"He came back alone?"

"Oh, sure. Had enough of her I guess. He went up the kitchen stairs. I sat a while longer and I was undressed and in bed when I heard the clock strike midnight."

"See anyone else in he garden?"

"No, I didn'," she replied sulkily. "I didn't see anyone or anything else about the old murder, in case you maybe get to thinking I'm not on the level about this."

They asked her more questions and finally let her go. And then they sent for William Dole and he was brought in, still self-possessed, though his eyes, Bim noticed, were harrassed.

He admitted the truth of Imogene's story simply, with a sort of fatalistic calm.

"I've been an awful fool," he said, stepping out of his butler character. "That's all, though—just a fool, not a murderer. When I think of her lying out there—dead—God!

"The story goes back a long time—ten years. She wasn't a Baroness then; she was a dancer, like myself. We danced together in 'Belle of Broadway' and I fell for her as everybody else was doing, only harder. Something about her to drive one mad... We—we went to Paris. We danced there and in London—all around. She ditched me when she began to get famous. I—well, you couldn't blame her. I wasn't anybody much and there was no limit to where she could go. Ambitious she was. You see?

"I didn't fall out of love with her, though. I came back here and did a little something on my own. But I kept remembering. Wanting to see her again. That's hard to understand, I guess."

Just Illusions

Walter said harshly, "Go on."

"I read in the paper she was coming to America — coming to visit Mrs. Hardy. So I got a job as butler, since I figured I couldn't get in any other way. Didn't expect to speak to her, you know. I just thought . . . Say, it's funny how things work out; the illusions you carry around."

"Illusions?"

The man looked up in surprise and shook his head. "Why, yes. When I did see her I knew I'd been kidding myself all these years. I wasn't in love with her at all and hadn't been for a long while. Don't understand that even yet. When I saw her that night she looked like just another woman to me."

"You told her this?"

"Well, she wanted to stir up the old thing, I suppose. Asked me to meet her in the garden. That—" he said with a glance at Bim, "—was what the note was about. I didn't want to go, but I did. We walked down to the Summer house and sat there a few minutes. She was angry and disappointed. I left her out there." He shook himself as one might upon awakening from a bad dream. "I said I'd been a fool.

"You understand," Walter asked him, "where you're standing now?"

"Oh, . . . I'll not try to get away, if that's what you mean. I'm willing to take whatever's coming to me, I suppose. The price of folly."

Bim felt sorry for him as he went away slowly, his head down. Had he told the truth? She would have said yes. And yet. . . .

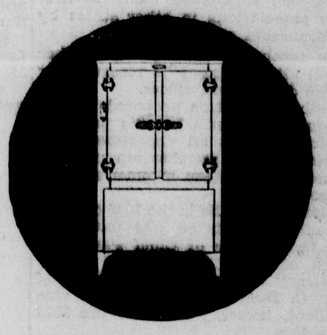

It was then that Chief Fury paid an unheard of midnight visit to the station house.

Good—they've got to be good!

They have a way with them, too!

Not only do you trust them, but you like them. And it's the same with a good cigarette.

Smokers stick to CHESTERFIELD because they find them dependably milder. You can smoke as many as you like.

And CHESTERFIELD smokes more evenly. Credit that to the ripe mild tobaccos and the pure imported cigarette paper.

Every CHESTERFIELD is made to smoke milder and to taste better.

More men and women every day are finding this out!
